

Being part of Charities Against Hate

	Charities use social media for lots of things like: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• fundraising• connecting with people who support them
	But sometimes people use social media to share hate speech. This is when people say horrible things about others because of who they are.
	KeyRing is part of a campaign that will come up with ideas to stop this.
	The campaign is called Charities Against Hate.

In the campaign we are part of a group called the Lived Experience Group. Some of the self-advocates we work with are part of it too.

The job of this group is to get lots of examples of people's experiences of online hate.

The charities involved will ask their beneficiaries about their experiences. A beneficiary is someone the charity supports or works with.

This will help us come up with good ideas about how things should change.

The campaign wants to have these ideas ready by the end of the year.